ANTI-BRIBERY MANAGEMENT SYSTEMS

ISO 37001 Anti-Bribery Management Systems addresses one of the world's most destructive and challenging issues head-on, and demonstrates an organisation's committed approach to stamping out corruption.

ISO 37001 institutes measures to prevent, detect and address bribery through adopting an anti-bribery policy, appointing personnel to oversee anti-bribery compliance, which complement efforts such as training, risk assessments and due diligence on projects and business associates, implementing financial and commercial controls, as well as instituting reporting and investigation procedures, all of which comply with local and international anti-bribery laws.

ISO 37001 can be used by any organisation, large or small, be it in the public, private or voluntary sector, and in any country. It is a flexible tool, which can be adapted according to the size and nature of the organisation and the bribery risks it faces.

ISO 37001 contributes to the UN's Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs) 2030, specifically:
Goal 10: Reduced Inequalities
Goal 11: Sustainable Cities & Communities, and Goal 16: Peace, Justice & Strong Institutions.

An effective risk-based anti-bribery management system will:

- Reduce the risk of bribery
- Reduce operating costs related to bribery
- Ensure compliance with MACC (Amendment) Act 2018 (Act A1567) and MACC Act 2009 (Act 694)
- Increase organisational efficiency and effectiveness through continual process improvements
- Enhance corporate image and branding, and improve access to global markets
